Generations

Sometimes I think of the billions of souls who have existed throughout history and their unique experience of life on earth –

The collective imagination of each generation, especially in times of uncertainty, and the resilience that emerges seems to tell a similar story:

*The grief, joy, fear, and love with which we live our lives makes us who we are
and transforms humanity
from generation to generation;*

we are each other.
