

Agreement between AI Practitioner and Contributor(s)

Authors who sign this agreement certify that they are authorised to sign on behalf of themselves and on behalf of any co-authors, with requisite permissions from all parties involved, including employers or other institutions if necessary. The authors understand that they each have the option of signing and returning a separate copy of this agreement. The agreement may be signed and executed by email (scanned hard copy with your signature or a digital original copy with your electronic signature) or in hard copy, posted to the address at the end of the agreement.

Authors retain and the publisher grants broad rights, including the right to reuse the article and rights for authorisation of reuse. The author may post any version to any repository or website with no delay.

If you have any questions about this agreement, please contact the managing editor (info@aipractitioner.com) or by letter, sent to AI Practitioner, Kessels+Smit, The Learning Company, Maliebaan 45, 3581 CD Utrecht, Netherlands.

Publication

1. The contributor(s) warrant that the contribution is original, that it is not in any way libellous or unlawful in the European Union, and that it does not infringe any copyright or other proprietary right. The contributor further warrants that she/he holds the rights to publish the work, and that it has not been previously published elsewhere in its current form. Further, the contributor has obtained all necessary permissions for the reproduction as part of the contribution any artistic works such as illustrations, photographs, charts, maps, videos or other visual materials not owned by the contributor.
2. The contributor(s) will deliver an electronic version of the article of between 800 and 2500 words by the date agreed with the Guest Editors and Managing Editor of AI Practitioner (AIP), and undertake to co-operate and collaborate with the Guest Editors, staff or such other persons as AIP may from time to time nominate as the editor of an AIP issue.
3. The publisher may revise, edit, condense or otherwise alter the work and its title and may code the work in HTML if necessary for web presentation, but will make no substantive changes to the text, title or graphic content without the contributor's permission. A draft of the article will be provided for the contributor to check and correct, and the contributor will return it by the date stipulated by the issue editor. If you do not within such time notify AIP of any corrections which may be required to be made AIP shall be entitled to proceed with publication of your article and such non-notification shall be deemed to constitute approval by you of your article for the purposes of this agreement. At the discretion of AIP, there may be further small adjustments to your article after you have returned proofs to AIP in accordance with this agreement and before publication.
4. Articles not published in the AI Practitioner issue can be published on the AI Practitioner website as a single article or as a blogpost. If AIP does not publish your article, you shall not be entitled to make any claim in respect of loss of opportunity or reputation.

Intellectual Property Rights and Contract Term

1. You grant to AIP: An exclusive worldwide licence to publish the article whole or part of the article in any media, for a period of one year commencing on the date of its first publication by AIP; and a worldwide perpetual licence to publish the article online.
2. You may post your article to any website without delay.
3. AIP has the right to choose stock photos for the article on the website and other media.

4. AIP has the right to use the article for social media campaigns and use the name(s) of the author(s) in campaigns.
5. You will not be asked to pay charges for publication nor will you be paid for submitted articles.

Copyright for your article

1. With this agreement you are recognised as having full copyright in the article, as presented to AIP, and agree to hold AIP, the David L. Cooperrider Center and Kessels & Smit, the Learning Company blameless in any claims of plagiarism or copyright infringement, brought by any person or entity, regarding the publication of this article in an AIP issue.
2. All requests by third parties to re-use your article in whole or in part must be agreed both by you as author and by AIP. All requests to adapt substantial part of your article in another AIP publication will be subject to your approval.

General: This agreement and all representations, obligations, undertakings and warranties contained in it shall endure for the benefit of and shall be binding on your personal representatives, heirs and beneficiaries and their successors and assigns and shall be binding upon the successors and assigns of AIP.

I/We agree to the terms of this agreement:

If a digital signature is used, the named person needs to send an email to info@aipractitioner.com as evidence of authority to use it.

Title of Contribution: _____

Contributor: _____

Signed _____ Date _____

Co-contributors _____

For AI Practitioner:

Signed _____ Date _____

Data Protection: AIP may store your name and contact details in electronic format in order to correspond with you about the publication of your article in AIP. We would like to contact you from time to time with information about new AIP issues. Please check the following box if you are happy to be contacted in this way:

(via email)

Please return the signed form by email to the managing editor at aipeditor@editorproofreader.co.uk or to AI Practitioner at info@aipractitioner.com, or by post to: AI Practitioner, c/o 80 Aylesbury House, Hatton Rd, Alperton HA0 1QW, United Kingdom